

SP40/SP50 Shoulder Pad

Those who are familiar with the name expect the highest standards of design from Billingham, incorporating ultimate functionality with superlative levels of comfort and material integrity. Whether a new bag or an accessory we adopt the same approach each time applying the same degree of thought and the same attention to detail.

Our shoulder pads have been a very popular choice for many years. The soft padding and non-slip underside have provided comfort and security. So it is with some deference to our past that we looked at re-designing this most functional of accessories.

SP40/SP50 Shoulder Pad

Features

On first sight there doesn't appear to be any significant changes, but we have re-worked the shoulder pad to make it more ergonomical and even more comfortable. For instance, instead of a single internal foam support, the new model features a cleverly designed five section reticulated insert constructed from a tough and hard wearing closed-cell foam. This allows the pad to almost mould itself to the wearer's shoulder offering even greater improved shoulder comfort than had been imagined at the drawing stage.

The shoulder pad also boasts several new features on the outside as well. The non slip material used to help the pad grip to the shoulder has been re-designed and improved providing enhanced grip, even when wet or used in difficult conditions, offering security and peace of mind to the wearer.

However, some things cannot be improved, and the use of leather continues the Billingham tradition for excellence. The pad is fully bound with our high quality leather for a tough, weatherproof finish.

The press-studs are tastefully decorated with our mark and allow the shoulder pad to be unclipped and transferred to other Billingham products.
